FIELD PHOTOGRAPHY TIP

Kevin B. Oliver took this pronghorn, scoring 86-2/8 points, in 2013 while hunting in Carbon County, Wyoming.
