FIELD PHOTOGRAPHY TIP NO. 3

Field photos are intended to be memories of the hunt and the hunted. Beyond the animals taken the country in which they lived and you visited are equally valuable to keep with you past the hunt. This is an excellent example of capturing a snap shot of sheep country and the display of a fine Dall's ram.

Mountain rams are regal animals and positioning them, legs folded under as they do when bedded is a natural pose showing the utmost respect. The removal of hunting gear and equipment adds to the natural setting and does not draw the eye away from the memorable background or the animal.

Next time, if you have the vista, take the time to include it in the photograph with your trophy. You will not regret the added memory.

PRONGHORN ABOVE Hunter E. Doeden took her first pronghorn in 2009 when she was 13 years old. The buck was harvested in Custer County, Montana, and has a score of 80-2/8 points.

DESERT SHEEP BELOW Thomas A. Cavin harvested this desert sheep in Nye County, Nevada, during the 2009 season. The ram scores 165-3/8 points.
