FIELD PHOTOGRAPHY TIP NO. 8

Help 'em Smile. Taking field photos is serious business, but not so serious that you should hold back showing how good you feel about the decision you made, the effort you put in, and the trophy that resulted. To steal a phrase from our fishing brethren, "the grip and grin is where it's at." Nothing lights up a field photo like a big smile, not even fill flash. Next time you have the opportunity and you notice your buddy's expression showing more angst over the pack out than the job at hand, help him relax and get him or her to smile. They'll thank you for it in the end when the memory card gets loaded.

You can see how happy Dean D. Dayton is with his trophy typical Columbia blacktail, scoring 128-1/8 points. He harvested this buck while hunting in King County, Washington, during the 2010 season.
